Tenth Annual CIC American Indian Studies Graduate Student Conference

April 2-4, 2009

University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

The American Indian Studies Program at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign is pleased to invite CIC graduate students and faculty interested in American Indian Studies to the tenth annual CIC American Indian Studies Graduate Student Conference.

Over the last ten years, this conference has fostered a continuing dialogue among graduate students and faculty interested in American Indian studies from across the thirteen CIC universities. It offers a friendly and supportive forum for graduate students to try out work in progress or seminar papers and to gain experience with conferences. It also offers a forum for graduate students and faculty to meet and exchange ideas with other scholars of American Indian studies. For graduate students, this conference opens a door to the field, and for faculty it provides a chance to talk with each other and support the next generation of emerging scholars.

We invite papers from graduate students at any stage in their graduate study and in any academic area in or related to American Indian studies. Please submit paper titles with abstracts of 100-200 words by March 1 to Robert Warrior, Director, American Indian Studies, University of Illinois, 1204 W. Nevada St., Urbana, IL 61801.

To compete for a conference paper award, completed papers of 7-8 pages must be submitted with your abstract. Students are not required to enter the competition in order to present a paper. If you are not competing, you need only send your title and abstract. All competitors must present their papers at the conference. Graduate students who choose not to present a paper are still encouraged to attend the conference.

We encourage faculty and graduate students to register for the conference as early as possible. For online registration and for information about lodging, please visit http://www.nah.uiuc.edu/news/conferences/index.html.
